Bitter Oleo Battle Due For Showdown In Ohio Assembly Even a floor defeat, how-

COLUMBUS, April 26 - The bitterest battle of the Ohio legislature year is scheduled in the rurally-dominated house of representatives tomorrow when the city-backed colored oleomargarine bill comes up for a vote.

The measure, which squeezed through the senate on reconsideration after an earlier defeat, was placed on the Wednesday calendar last night by the rules committee, which has held the measure up for more than a month,

The senate last night passed, 30-0, an emergency measure to set up a civilian defense corps in the state adjutant general's office.

The new corps would function under an advisory board of 11 appointed by the governor. Counties, cities and villages would be authorized to establish civilian defense units under the bill.

Sen. Ed Sawacki (D-Cleveland) introduced a resolution to memorialize the federal government to seek an amendment to the federal Constitution to permit United States participation in a "world federal government."

Such memorializing action already has been taken by 17

In the house Rep. Mark Mc-Elroy (D-Cuyahoga) introduced a resolution calling on the state supreme court to investigate the high number of failures in the recent state bar examination. Some 200 of about 450 who took the examination failed to pass.

Both resolutions were deferred under legislative rules. Gov. Frank Lausche was virtually on record today as favoring a $21 million highway appropriation to match federal funds through June 1951. A group of city officials comprising the highway committee of the Ohio League of Municipalitles asked the governor yesterday afternoon to approve Highway Director T. J. Kauer's request for $33.5

The governor excused himself in advance for not granting all their request by citing the state's precarious financial position, but he added:

which expires July 1, 1951."

This amounts to $21,311,512 made avilable by the federal act of 1944. There is another $35,533,904 available for state use through the 1948 act.

The state and local governments must match these sums on a 50-50 basis. Heretofore, the state has contributed 25 percent and the local governments an equal amount.

However, the 11 delegates to the governors office agreed that the cities no longer were able to hold up their end. They said the money they derived from the sale of license plates and from the gasoline tax simply was not enough to allow them to contribute sums of any size.

Furthermore, they said the cities always had borne the brunt of the gas tax and they were tired of seeing the rural areas reaping the benefits. Of the federal monies available, something over $17 million has been earmarked for city use.

LORETTA YOUNG - VAN JOHNSON "MOTHER IS A FRESHMAN"

THE POPULAR SYSTEM OF 'More-for-your-Money"

America is the land of More-for-your-Money.

Today when you get into your car you get more miles per dollar on your tires, more miles per gallon on your gasoline, more luxury per hour out of the car itself.

And do you know why?

It's a "system." The American System of free opportunity-of free incentive. If there were no opportunity for profit there would be no incentive for business and no way to make the investments in wells, refineries, and delivery systems that are bringing you the 50% more petroleum products needed today over prewar.

Frankly, another duty of the management of this company is to earn money for the investors who risk their savings in it. When we pay dividends we are only "paying our rent" on the money we are using.

To earn this profit we must attract customers. The only way we know to do this is to give you good value for your dollar, to price our products so fairly within market conditions that you will not want to buy anywhere else.

When we make a profit we do it by making driving and living more economical for you. It's the "system."

Is it a bad system?

"MOTHER IS A FRESHMAN

THE POPULAR SYSTEM OF 'More-for-your-Money"

America is the land of More-for-your-Money.

Today when you get into your car you get more miles per dollar on your tires, more miles per gallon on your gasoline, more luxury per hour out of the car itself.

And do you know why?

It's a "system." The American System of free opportunity-of free incentive. If there were no opportunity for profit there would be no incentive for business and no way to make the investments in wells, refineries, and delivery systems that are bringing you the 50% more petroleum products needed today over prewar.

Frankly, another duty of the management of this company is to earn money for the investors who risk their savings in it. When we pay dividends we are only "paying our rent" on the money we are using.

To earn this profit we must attract customers. The only way we know to do this is to give you good value for your dollar, to price our products so fairly within market conditions that you will not want to buy anywhere else.

When we make a profit we do it by making driving and living more economical for you. It's the "system."

Is it a bad system?

Most people will be left completely in the dark by this explanation. The suspicion arises that some senators wanted to be sure that they would be able to head off any proposed changes in government stituents. In the minds of some senators, the integrity of the legislative process has always meant the power of a minority to obstruct legislation in the Senate. These Days

The assumption of every people at war is that their arms will lead to victory. But the meaning of victory is often ambiguous. For instance, in the Revolutionary War, victory for the Americans had to mean independence; but during the Civil War neither side could be or ever was sure of victory meant the defeat of the Kaiser's Germany, but that was insufficient for Pickaway County and Circleville trading terri- Americans, so we invented several goals-"the war to end all wars," "the war to make the world safe for democracy," "the 14 points." Yet all these phrases were surprisingly meaningless in themselves and therefore the victory dissolved itself in an astonishingly short time into a defeat and into the need for a new war.

House Might Repudiate Truman on T-H Repeal Special to Central Press

Predict Lower Chamber May Prefer Wood Bill

WASHINGTON-President Truman and organized labor, which backed him for election and claims a lion's share for his upset victory, are threatened with stunning defeat in the House. Key spokesmen for Republicans and southern Democrats are predicting that the House will reject the administration's Taft-Hartley labor act repeal bill and accept in its place a substitute measure by Rep. John S. Wood (D), Georgia, The Wood bill is substantially the old Taft-Hartley law with minor changes. It is sponsored by a member of the House committee on labor, which rejected it in favor of the administration's bill, introduced by Rep. John Lesinski (D), Michigan, labor committee chairman. The administration has been proceeding on the theory that repeal was safe in the House, that the only chamber for the White House to worry about was the Senate. Top Democratic leaders in the House express onfidence that the Wood substitute will be defeated, although they expect a close vote.

If they are wrong, Mr. Truman's pledge to the nation and to organized labor that the Taft. Hartley law will be repealed will not be fulfilled. What the political consequences of this would be to the administration and Congress are yet

The American government's top aviation research agency let the cat out of the bag part of the way in a recent report. This agency is the National Advisory Committee for Aeronautics. In the report, NACA stated that one of the biggest current prob-

SPEAKING OF WEATHER

THE natural interest of people in weather not only creates part of the demand for the services of the Weather Bureau, but also provides part of the flow of information on which weather reporting and forecasting depend. There are about 5,600 persons who help the Bureau out daily as unpaid volunteer observers of the weather. They make daily notations of conditions, and send in their summarized reports to thaginian monstrosity, and the charter of the Bureau. The system grew easily be- the United Nations, which laid the foundacause so many people are interested tion of a world state. enough in the weather to do the work.

These reports from the volunteer observers are not used directly in daily forecasting, but are part of the great mass of information from which the meteorologists draw their charts of weather cycles and weather behavior, and from which the basic rules of forecasting are drawn. Without such detailed information the forecasting process would not be nearly so accurate as it is.

There has been some dispute as to who coined the quip: "Everybody talks about the weather but nobody does anything about it." Whoever it was, if he had lived a few years later he might have said, instead: "Everybody talks about the weather anyway, so the Weather Bureau puts the talkers to work."

John L. McClellan of Arkansas, chairman of the committee, explains that the purpose was "to preserve the integrity of the legislative process."

Most people will be left completely in the dark by this explanation. The suspicion arises that some senators wanted to be sure that they would be able to head off any proposed changes in government which might adversely affect their constituents. In the minds of some senators, the integrity of the legislative process has always meant the power of a minority to obstruct legislation in the Senate. Must this prerogative be preserved, even though it stand in the way of government reform?

These Days

The assumption of every people at war s that their arms will lead to victory. But the meaning of victory is often ambiguous. For instance, in the Revolutionary War, victory for the Americans had to mean independence; but during the Civil War neither side could be or ever was sure of what victory would bring. In World War I, victory meant the defeat of the Kaiser's Germany, but that was insufficient for Americans, so we invented several goals-"the war to end all wars," "the war to make the world safe for democracy," "the 14 points." Yet all these phrases were surprisingly meaningless in themselves and therefore the victory dissolved itself in an astonishingly short time into a defeat and into the need for a new war.

World War II was fought without the terms of victory. It was a blind date with destiny. The most that could be said was 'down with Hitler, Mussolini and Tojo." minor figures on the historic scene. Conferences were called in Quebec, Moscow, Teheran, Cairo and Yalta to discover what victory might mean. Yet the closest to a program for victory was the so-called Morgenthau Plan, which was at best a Car-

Lester B. Pearson, Canadian secretary of state for external affairs, correctly appraised that when he said:

"Basically, these problems could all be reduced to one great question. How far would the Soviet Union go in exploiting the postwar situation so as to extend its territory and increase its might? This question was no idle speculation. We had seen the boundaries of Russia extended first in 1939 and 1940 at the expense of Latvia, Lithuania, Esthonia and Finland. As the war went on, it became clear that the promise of freedom to Poland would not include these Eastern Polish provinces, which were, in fact, eventually surrendered by Poland to the USSR. After the war's end. parts of Roumania, Czechoslovakia and Hungary were also added. The American government's top aviation research agency let the cat out of the bag part of the way in a recent report. This agency is the National Advisory Committee for Aeronautics. In the report, NACA stated that one of the biggest current problems in maintaining the United States lead in supersonic flight is assuring "a sufficient supply" of heat-resisting metal. Not development of such a metal-but development of enough production for an emergency

Also of interest and tucked away in the document, was the disclosure that the supersonic plane will have no certain, set shape. Aircraft designers for years have worked on the premise that a certain wing configuration would best offset the turbulence which wracks a plane as it passes through the 600-900 mile per hour trans-

NACA says that it now looks like a swept-back wing up to 1,500 miles an hour with an old-style straight wing-but with a knifethin leading edge-for speeds above that.

However, with the advent of the North Atlantic Switch Security Alliance and the "cold war" warming up day by day, it is anticipated that the western European nations will move to restore the Franco regime to working diplomatic status.

• AND ITALY?-A phenomenon of the fast-scampering post-war diplomatic years is that, as far as Italy is concerned, the State department apparently has forgotten Rome was an Axis partner in the second world conflict.

Ties between the United States and Italy grow closer. This was elimaxed when Communism, plus her present government, have given her complete absolution in American diplomatic eyes.)

Do You Really Want to Take Off That Ugly Fat?

Recently there have been a number of new reducing preparations on the market, some of them based on the diet and vitamin "plan." It obvious that vitamins will not reduce the body weight, so one must depend on diet to reduce. But it is also obvious that one cannot go on a strenuous diet over a protracted period, and any weight lost will be restored if the former eating habits are gone back to. So what to do? Well, here is a tip to you "overweight gals" who want to fight "the Battle of the Bulges" in a different way. Ask any well stocked Ohio druggist for four ounces of Rennel. Mix with 12 ounces of grapefruit juice and take two tablespoonfuls twice a day.

This preparation contains nothing harmful and the makers agree to refund your money on the very first bottle if it does not show you the way to lose ugly fat and help regain slender, more graceful curves. Old Rockport beat Olympia on the coast last Winter, and the question now seems to be whether he can do it again. Arcaro doesn't think so.

Meanwhile, the Kentucky Derby seems to have settled itself into a two-horse race between those old rivals, and nobody is paying much attention to the other likely starters.

In winning the Wood Memorial at a mile and a sixteenth at Jamaica Saturday, Olympia had some luck, but still won the race like a real horse.

Tile System Not Always To Blame For Poor Drainage

Bad Soil Could Be Cause, Claim

Overcropping Said Current Danger

If once well-drained soil is elogged up this Spring, don't put all the blame on your tile drain system; the poor drainage may be due to damaged soil structure and loss of organic matter caused by overcropping, according to Larry Best, Pickaway County agricultural agent.

"Drainage has been slowed down to a 'walk' on thousands of Midwestern farms by soil mining practices," according to Best. He added:

after year and too few deep-root ed legumes in the rotation have Guthrie Bill ed legumes in the rotation have broken down the cushion soil structure. Failure to return plant nutrients manure and

"On such land soil particles are jammed into a hard, compact mass, instead of clustering together in loose granules. Circulation of air and moisture is cut off. Water ponds on the surface instead of soaking in. Roots are up against a 'concrete floor' that stops them from stretching out for needed nutrients. Crop yields are low.

Tile System Not Always To Blame For Poor Drainage

Bad Soil Could Be Cause, Claim

Overcropping Said

Current Danger

If once well-drained soil is cloged up this Spring, don't put all the blame on your tile drain system; the poor drainage may be due to damaged soil structure and loss of organic matter caused by overcropping, according to Larry Best, Pickaway County agricultural agent.

"Drainage has been slowed down to a 'walk' on thousands of Midwestern farms by soil mining practices," according to Best. He added:

"Too many grain crops year after year and too few deep rooted legumes in the rotation have broken down the cushion soil structure. Failure to return plant nutrients, manure and crop residues to the soil have aggravated the problem.
"On such land soil particles are jammed into a hard, compact mass, instead of clustering together in loose granules. Circulation of air and moisture is cut off. Water ponds on the surface instead of soaking in. Roots are up against a 'concrete floor' that stops them from stretching out for needed nutrients. Crop yields are low.

"For good root development and dense topgrowth that will put extra organic matter in the soil, legumes need to be well fed with phosphate and potash fertilizer. Then they can do their best soil building job."

Girl, 7, Hurt In Truck Fall

COLUMBUS, April 26-Hospital attendants still listed the condition of seven-year-old Beverly Corbin today as "critical."

The little girl fell from the back of a truck belonging to James Bird, 26, of Columbus late yesterday and fractured her

Bird told sheriff's deputies he didn't see the child clumb on the truck before he left the home of his father, William Bird, just west of Columbus. He said he already had arrived at his own home nearby when his father telephoned to tell him the Corbin girl had fallen from his truck.
